North Suburban YMCA Strengthens Commitment to Healthy Families During National Childhood Obesity Awareness Month

Northbrook, IL: September 2015 – One of the most widespread and devastating health issues facing the nation today is also one of the most preventable: the epidemic of childhood obesity. Declines in physical activity coupled with poor nutrition and sugary foods has led to rates of obesity among young people near 30%. These children face a future shadowed by increased risks for cardiovascular disease, diabetes, cancer, and other life-threatening conditions.

In response to this health crisis, the US government recognizes September as National Childhood Obesity Awareness Month. 2015 marks the fifth anniversary of this designation, which rallies governments, schools, community service agencies, and individuals to become educated and involved in supporting children’s health.

The North Suburban YMCA joins with Ys around the country to provide programs that encourage healthy, active lifestyles for kids and their families. From sports leagues to dance classes, swim lessons to youth-geared fitness classes, the North Suburban Y offers a wide spectrum of opportunities that make exercise fun. Tailored programs for children with special needs provide a positive foundation for this vulnerable population. Afterschool enrichment programs combine academic skill support with outdoor play, swimming, and other active pursuits

“September is a perfect time for families to make a commitment to healthy living,” notes Kathy Fielding, NSYMCA Membership Director. “With fresh programs starting for the fall, children have the chance to make new friends and build new activities into their schedules. At the Y, we create options that appeal to kids of all ages and set them on a road for lifelong health.
