North Suburban YMCA Appoints Dance Veteran to Performing Arts Director Post.

Northbrook, IL If there's ever been a staple in the community, it's YMCA dance teacher Joni Goldstein. Recently appointed as the new Performing Arts Director at the North Suburban YMCA, Goldstein has been at the Y's North Suburban School of Dance for 34 high-stepping years. In fact, it's been Goldstein's dedication and passion for dance that has been instrumental in making the Y's dance program one of the most successful on the North Shore.

The success of the dance program says Goldstein, is due to the enthusiasm of the dance teachers which is staffed with a variety of professional dancers. Thus, one of Goldstein's goals is to be a teacher advocate. "I've been on the other side so I know what teachers need to best meet the needs of our students."

Goldstein, a member of the Chicago Association of Dance Masters, a featured dancer in National Dance Studio Life Magazine, and board member of the Leopold Dance Company intends to make an Alumni Program of all the YMCA dancers who are now dancing professionally.

"We are thrilled that Joni has accepted the position of Performing Arts Director. She has been a terrific asset to our dance department and has demonstrated amazing energy and spirit for her new role here at the Y," commented Bryan Pumphrey, Associate Executive Director of the YMCA.
